

IVERSON ARCHITECTS WINS GOLD AWARD FOR HAWKSTONE MASTER-PLANNING

Iverson Architects won the Gold Award for The Best On the Boards Master-Planned Community at the 28th annual National Sales & Marketing Awards presented at the International Builder's Show held on January 20, 2009 at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, Nevada. During a three-day judging process, a panel of seven industry professionals from across the country selected Silver and Gold award winners from a field of over 800 entries. Iverson Architect's Hawkstone Village project for Whitewater Creek, Inc. in the City of Liberty Lake, Washington was chosen for this prestigious award.

Hawkstone creates a welcoming village environment based on successful place-making principles that put more value on people than on lot lines. It's a diverse, pedestrian-friendly community that promotes a healthier lifestyle by emphasizing connectivity, diversity, and sustainability. To give Hawkstone a time-honored character, we have varied the homes in look and feel and incorporate front porches and wide sidewalks to connect neighbors to each other, green space, and the retail village. At the very core of our design is a respect for the environment. Ecologically responsible innovations will provide comfort and energy efficiency inside your home while preserving the natural resources of the larger Liberty Lake community. Creating communities like Hawkstone that promote an atmosphere of cooperation, trust, and belonging is not a new idea. It's a welcome return to the traditional "Main Street" lifestyle.
